REVERSE FOR THE BURGHERS

Strong Position Seized By the British and the Boers Retreat.

RENSBURG, Cape Colony, Jan. 12.—A strong force of British troops advanced this morning under cover of a brisk artillery fire and encamped at Slingsfontein on the Boers' eastern flank. The Boer patrols retired, but subsequently a body of Boers attempted to seize a position threatening communication between the British encampment and Rensburg. The New Zealanders, with a brilliant dash, frustrated the attempt. They raced and seized the position first and fired volleys at the enemy, who retired in the direction of Colaburg.

AN IMPORTANT MOVE.

The movement of General Buller's troops in the vicinity of Colaburg this morning is taken to indicate the importance of General Buller's objective, namely, to obtain command of both bridges across the Orange river, and has hastened to send him reinforcements. It is so thought to partially confirm the suggestion that General Buller's plans in this sphere of operation.

About for thousand troops sailed for South Africa this afternoon.

WILD SCENES ON DEPARTURE OF VOLUNTEERS

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Though many stirring scenes have marked the departure of African troops for the front during the month, today's outbreak of patriotism on the occasion of the starting of the London Volunteers was quite unprecedented since the Jubilee. It is the first time in the history of the government that British Volunteers have been permitted to serve side by side with the regulars in real warfare, and the people turned out in hundreds of thousands to throng the route. The crowds began to throng the route before dawn and increased in such proportions that a detachment of the Lord Mayor's Own were employed at various stages of the route. Ranks were frequently broken, and the men were almost lost sight of in the cheering, shouting, singing crowd. Every now and then a hat was made in order to reinforce the ranks, but only to be again broken, as the police were unable to stem the excited, cheering, singing mass of people, which again and again broke through all obstructions.

PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATIONS.

The handshaking and embraces were so exuberant that the original intention of the volunteers was speedily impeded, many uniforms being torn. But the troops finally managed to struggle through to the Mansion House. On the balcony of that building the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, the Councillors and others awaited the arrival of the volunteers and witnessed them actually fighting their way through the dense crowds, assisted by male friends and impeded by clinging women. When the force was finally reformed, the Lord Mayor attempted to make a speech, but found it impossible. The din was simply deafening, and the Chief Magistrate had to be content to indicate his good wishes by smiles and gestures, while the volunteers greeted him with cheers and waving their hats on their raised rifles.

There was another heroic effort on the part of the police, and the detachment resumed its march to the accompaniment of pushing, screaming, cheering and singing.

WILD ENTHUSIASM.

The columns had hardly covered a hundred yards when it again commenced with the surging crowds who had undisciplined way along the route. Many of the volunteers escaped through side streets, and others struggled along in single file by two and threes. By the time they reached the Mansion House, the police arrangements had become a complete confusion, women's hats being as numerous in the mass as volunteers' headgear. Over an hour was consumed in traversing the mile to Westminster. There the police arrangements improved and the multitudes were marshaled into some kind of order. The windows, roofs and every other vantage point were crowded with singing, cheering humanity, waving banners, hats and handkerchiefs. Finally the column reached Nine Elms station, bearing numberless traces of the difficulties of the march. The public was excluded, the final leave-taking being held outside, and the volunteers entrained and departed.

The Lord Mayor, Sheriffs and Councillors, in their state robes, accompanied by many ladies, took another special train for Southampton to bid farewell to the volunteers on board the transport Briton. The latter arrived soon after the Lord Mayor's party, and were escorted with ringing cheers from a huge assembly on the quays as they boarded the lighter.

TAKES BRIDE.

Capitalist Davis Aged 62 is Married Again.

Secret Wedding Takes Place at Quiet San Rafael.

William Davis, the East Oakland contractor and capitalist, aged 62 years, who secured a divorce from his wife, Anastasia Elizabeth Davis, about two years ago, was married in San Rafael today to Miss Mary Merrill of Portland who is nearly thirty years his junior.

The divorce action of the Davises created quite a stir in East Oakland society when the case was on trial. Both of the parties were about 60 years of age and had a family of grown up children. For some time there had been differences between the couple which led to their estrangement. Matters finally became so tense that neither husband nor wife would even speak to the other.

In November of 1896 Mrs. Davis began an action for divorce charging her husband with cruelty. Davis filed an answer to his wife's complaint and in turn made allegations of cruelty.

Pending the trial of the case a restraining order was issued by Judge Greene to prevent Davis from disposing of his property, which was reputed to be worth over $10,000.

Davis was also required to advance large sums to his wife to prosecute the action.

When the case came to trial, after several months' delay, Mrs. Davis failed to substantiate the charges in the complaint and was denied a divorce. The husband, however, did prove that his wife had treated him with cruelty and was granted a separation.

By the decree of divorce Mrs. Davis was awarded $4,300 cash, the family residence at 1112 Second avenue, East Oakland, property at Frederick and Park streets, really in Kings county and land in Spokane county, Washington.

Davis was allowed to retain the remainder of his property.

MORE TROUBLE IN VENEZUELA.

Rebels Still Active and the Government Troops Beaten.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Herald from Port of Spain says:

It is announced here upon apparently good authority that notwithstanding the official statement of the Venezuelan government that the revolution in that country was at an end, the insurrection is still alive.

It was reported two days after the government had announced the insurrection was crushed General Hernandez had inflicted a severe defeat upon the government troops at El Nalpe. The same authority says the rebels took many prisoners, captured 300 Mauser rifles, sixty-eight cases of cartridges, many flags, seven cannons and three Maxim's, while the government loss in killed was heavy.

Reports from the east coast of Venezuela say that the revolutionists under Generals Antonio Nel and Jose Diaz have successfully attacked the government forces, which retired. Several of the government troops were killed and ten were wounded. Among those killed were Domingo Nel, brother of the revolutionary leader. It is also reported that the government troops have been surrounded at Guera by the revolutionists under General Du Charne.

AFTER MALOON

Margaret Pelton Makes Able Defense of Society.

Must Not Throw Stones at Birds of Fine Plumage.

Editor Tribune: Will you allow me space to correct a few mistakes which, while trivial, are more or less trying?

In Thursday's TRIBUNE you have headed an article with conspicuous headlines announcing that I am making "a secret investigation of the liquor traffic."

"This carries absurdity on the face of it. I might cause an investigation, but for one woman to investigate the liquor traffic in even so small a place as Oakland would be a task beyond even the powers of even a "new woman." And to do it secretly, too, but adds to the impossibility.

What I did say was as follows: "Oakland Union W. C. T. U. is quietly canvassing the groceries of Oakland to ascertain how many of them furnish liquor to their patrons." This work is done by a large committee, whose work is hindered by the recent storm, but will soon be completed.

The union has taken no action on drug stores as yet and most assuredly I have not, while deeply anxious to strike a blow at the traffic whenever an opportunity offers.

Whatever we do, we do as a union and not as individuals.

I BELIEVE THAT LICENSE INSPECTOR MALOON IS MISTAKEN ABOUT OUR SOCIETY WOMEN DRINKING OR VISITING DRUG STORES TO PROCURE LIQUOR. There may be isolated cases of this kind, but the large representation of Oakland society women in all clubs and associations of educational, civic and philanthropic aims, forbids the thought that many of the class have so far forgotten noblesse oblige as to degrade their own high standing.

Fabiola Hospital is a grand monument to which every Oakland points with pride as the work of these ladies, and there are half a score lesser institutions that are blessing the citizens of Oakland, built up and constantly cared for and supported by these noble women.

LET US GIVE HONOR WHERE IT IS DUE, AND NOT BE SO READY TO THROW STONES AT THESE BIRDS OF FINE PLUMAGE WHO HAVE ADDED SO MUCH TO THE BEAUTY AND GRACE OF OUR FAIR CITY AND HAVE GIVEN IT, SO FAR AS THEY COULD, THE RIGHT TO BE CALLED THE "CITY OF HOMES."

THE KIND OF TALK INDULGED IN BY MR. MALOON IS TOO PREVALENT, AND WHILE IT MAY NOT CAUSE A RIPLE OF COMMENT AMONG THE ACCUSED, IT DOES AND WILL HAVE ITS INFLUENCE UPON THOSE WHO ARE JUST FORMING THEIR OPINIONS AND HABITS. Anything which tends to lower respect and veneration for woman, high or low, has a downward tendency for the youth of the community.

And when we begin to tear down or deface the ornamental facades, the minarets, domes and spires of our social fabric, it will not be long before the effect is felt to the deepest foundation.

Have you ever thought, dear reader, what a beautiful world this would be if men drank as little, swore as little and were as devoted to good works as their sister women.

Cradled together in the same loving mother's arms, guided together by the same gentle counsel, why should it be needful or possible for the paths in life to diverge so radically; that what is right for the brother becomes a public scandal when applied to the sister?

He will probably be the unanimous choice of the four commissioners.

It is stated that the new Chief may not be elected until Monday.

WRECKED SHIP UNIDENTIFIED.

She May Be a French Cable Repairing Boat.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Jan. 12.—No word has been received from Poters' river in regard to the unknown steamer wrecked and on fire on a reef in St. Mary's Bay. The storm is still raging, and boats cannot put off from the land nor can sailing vessels approaching the ship. It is feared that her hull is broken up, which will increase the difficulty of identifying her, unless divers are dispatched to the scene. News of a definite character is expected this afternoon. The officials of the French Cable Company are apprehensive that the wrecked steamer may be their cable repairing boat, Francois Arago, which carried a crew of 120 men. She was known to be off the Newfoundland coast, engaged in cable work, and she has not been reported for several days.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—No news has been received from New York confirming the report that the steamer is the Francois Arago.

STORY OF THE CHECKS.

Simpson-Nusbaumer Case Comes to Trial in the Superior Court.

The suit of R. S. Simpson for an accounting against J. M. Nusbaumer was begun in the Superior Court of San Francisco before Judge Coffey of San Francisco who had consented to hear it at the request of the judges of this county, who had expressed a desire to be excused from sitting in the case.

The plaintiff was represented by J. E. McElrath. Mr. Nusbaumer was represented by R. M. Fitzgerald and A. L. Frick.

Mr. Fitzgerald stated that they had gone farther than was required in making an answer, where simply a denial would have sufficed. The case had been closed in 1893. Macdonough was dead. J. C. Martin, the attorney in the case, was dead, and all the books and papers of Mr. Macdonough had been destroyed.

Major McElrath said that he had alleged in the complaint that Mr. Nusbaumer had gotten a sum of money. Technically, Nusbaumer might not have received money, because only checks had been used.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that checks, made payable to Mr. Nusbaumer and cashed by him would be considered as money.

FIRST WITNESS.

John Semon was the first witness. He testified in response to questions from Major McElrath that he had been the secretary of Commodore Macdonough up to the time of his death. Macdonough had an account at the Bank of California. The witness kept Macdonough's books up to the time of Macdonough's death.

"Do you know," he was asked, "where the books and checks of Macdonough were kept up to the time of his death?"

"They were destroyed," was the answer.

"Who destroyed them?"

"I did."

Mr. Semon then stated that Mr. Macdonough kept in what might be called a day book, an account of the cost of the Albany Hotel. That day-book was destroyed. The account books of Macdonough and check books had been destroyed at the time of the settlement of the estate. The same disposition had been made of Macdonough's private memoranda.

Witness was asked if he remembered the settlement that was made in the case of Simpson vs. Macdonough, and answered that he was familiar with it.

Witness was shown a statement of checks drawn on the Bank of California by Macdonough for various sums.

He was asked if he knew to whom the checks were made payable. The checks were in various sums and were drawn in February and March 1893. Witness knew the payer of only one of the checks and that person was the sister of Macdonough who was then residing in New York.

He was asked how he had drawn the checks. He said he had been telephoned about a settlement of the case of Simpson vs. Macdonough. He went to Mr. Cole's office and was told of the amount to be paid in settlement. He had spoken to Mr. Macdonough about it and had suggested that the sum, instead of being paid in a lump should be paid in individual claims. At the meeting in Cole's office, witness remembered that Mr. Cole said that Mr. Nusbaumer was that individual in the settlement, had been decided upon by them. Witness filled out the checks in accordance with the memorandum furnished him. That memorandum had been destroyed with the rest of the papers of Mr. Macdonough.

Major McElrath then read the action of the Superior Court in dismissing the suit of Simpson and others against Macdonough.

THE CHECKS.

Witness said he did not know that he was in the court at the time of the dismissal. He delivered checks growing out of the settlement, one of them to Mr. Nusbaumer. It was done in Mr. Cole's office in San Francisco. He did not know how many checks he had given Nusbaumer for other parties at that time. He could not tell whether the checks had been delivered to Nusbaumer on Washington's birthday. He had never lunched with Mr. Nusbaumer in his life. He remembered, on suggestion of Mr. McElrath, that a check for $5,000 was made payable to the Trust Some Lumber Company. A check was drawn for A. A. Moore, but the witness could not tell the amount. M. C. Chipman had a check for $250. Witness had no recollection of a check for $500 payable to Nusbaumer. He remembered that the settlement had cost Mr. Macdonough about $23,000 or $25,000. Mr. Cole had received $2,500 and had received $2,500 from Cole, and in accordance with that, the checks were made out by him and, an hour later, signed by Mr. Macdonough. No claim had passed in the settlement of the case. Cole had received $2,500 and Sam McKee $500. These amounts with the settlement sums made the total amount $25,000. There was no other check drawn in favor of Mr. Nusbaumer.

SETTLING THE CASE.

The recollection of witness was that Simpson was to receive all that was agreed on in the compromise. Semon said that Macdonough had asked him what he thought about settling the claim for $10,000. Witness said that he thought the affair ought to be wound up. Simpson had been offered $10,000 and had refused it. Mr. Nusbaumer had suggested a settlement for $10,000. The proposition of Mr. Nusbaumer was accepted.

WILL MAKE CAMPAIGN TO CARRY THE BONDS.

NORTH OAKLAND DISSATISFIED, Associated Clubs Are Ready to Make the Battle.

At the meeting of the Associated Improvement Clubs last night Dr. Foster presided and J. S. Naismith acted as secretary.

City Attorney Dow, in answer to questions, said that in the matter of a bond election for the purchase of parks, the election would have to take place on a day separate from the day on which an election for street improvements could be held.

In response to a question of H. Watkins, Mr. Dow said he did not know how the marsh land could be secured for public improvement of the city.

If there was a park on the property, the city would control the streets leading to it or to any other park, and the property owners could not be made to pay for their improvement.

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mr. Dow for his courteous responses to the questions propounded to him.

OAKLAND'S GREATNESS.

Geo. H. Gray said that Oakland was growing in importance. From this time on, it would be a much larger town than it had been accustomed to consider it. The bond proposition ought to be put through on the lines considered by the clubs. Fifty years ago there was no population here. The nations of the world were trying to get to the Pacific Ocean. Japan, a growing nation, was on the Pacific Ocean. China was on the Pacific. There were 350,000,000 people. The United States had 70,000,000 people. The population in some parts of China was estimated to be 100,000,000 people. China could send her manufactures here, although she could not send her people. That trade would have to come to the Pacific. It would come to San Francisco. It would come to Oakland. It behooved Oakland to wake up.

BOND ISSUE NOT GREAT.

An issue of $2,000,000 was not so much to expend in improvements to enable Oakland to get ready to meet the great influx of people in the future. As a school director, he wanted some money to increase the school accommodations of this city. Every school in Oakland was full to the utmost. Classes contained in many cases sixty-five children. That number was too many for one teacher to attend to.

MORE SCHOOLS.

There should, therefore, be more schools and more accommodations. The Lafayette School would have to be enlarged. The annexed district could not be neglected. There was no school on Vernon Heights, but a school would have to be erected there. The assembly room in the Garfield School would have to be abandoned for class purposes. He thought that $2,000,000 would be enough to add to school accommodations. All the improvements contemplated, he thought, were absolutely necessary.

SUPR. MCLINTON'S.

Superintendent McLintons said a community never made a mistake in building wisely and permanently. If they voted bonds for forty years, they should build buildings which would last twenty years. The proposed school building should be able to withstand the attacks of decay for years. There was need of a school about twelve blocks west of Loring. That building should have eight rooms. That would contain the girls and male students. Nothing should be placed there that building would not be able to withstand decay and would have to be replaced. Such a building would cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

PLAY GROUNDS NEEDED.

The site should not be smaller than 3

Associated Clubs Are Ready to Make the Battle.

count against two votes for the bonds in the other parts of the city.

GET BEHIND THE COUNCIL.

Chairman Foster said the only way was to get behind the Council. If that were not done the city would get no award no city land, no parks—nothing. The Seventh ward was left out of everything just as North Oakland was. The people in that ward were willing to stand behind the Council. North Oakland was getting as much as the Seventh ward was. That was street improvement.

Mr. Drake said if the Club should endorse Mr. Chilchestr's motion it would eventually fill up the marsh.

Mr. Naismith said the club had endorsed the park proposition and he thought it should stand by the proposition. The resolution in question would tend to harmony as much as anything would.

Mr. Burns wanted to have the general improvements voted on first and then bring in the park proposition.

WORKING TOGETHER.

H. B. Welch said if they would only work together they would get the bond proposition through. In Berkeley the people would like a park, but as the matter had not been agreed to by the Council, the matter would have to be set aside.

Mr. Drake said it would be impossible to convince the people in North Oakland of the advisability of voting for bonds when only other people would be benefited. At the same time he would vote for the bonds himself.

J. C. Bullock said if the marsh were built in West Oakland the marsh filling would follow.

Mr. Watkins said the club had already recommended clubs to the Council and that it was not necessary to send another recommendation to it.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

A motion of Mr. Watkins to appoint a campaign committee of five was carried. It was afterward amended so as to include the appointment of one member from each club in the association. The committee appointed was as follows:

Adeline Club—J. R. McGregor.
Parade Club—J. R. McGregor.
Golden Gate—C. A. Chilchestr.
Linda Vista—C. M. Prior.
Telegraph Avenue and North Oakland—R. J. Koster.
Twenty-third Avenue—S. Swift.
West Oakland—H. W. Watkins.
Indian-American—C. J. Welch.
North Oakland—D. Des Carmiers.

All the members of the North Oakland delegation save Des Carmiers declined to serve on the committee, some because, as they alleged, they had no money, and others because they thought it would not be safe to talk bonds in that section.

IMPROVE TWO SECTIONS.

Mr. Watkins said that the proposed ward would be practically an improvement to North Oakland because it would be located near Twenty-second street, which was in North Oakland.

Mr. Wilson said the people in North Oakland were perhaps willing to admit that it was impossible to get the marsh filled at the present time, but they had refused not only that improvement, but also an addition to the Cleveon school to accommodate the fourth grade. The children of that grade and to go to the Durant school, and in winter they went home with wet feet.

School Director Price said that the Board of Education had no money to build an addition to that school.

Mr. McLintons said it was impossible to keep all the grades in all the schools and that it would result in having a few pupils in some of the higher classes. Besides, the streets out there ought to be graded and relieved of the mud, and the annoyance of wet feet complained of would be abated.

The meeting then adjourned.

Board found it impossible to grant the request.

There are four new classes to be established in the Department at once.

Members of School Board Hold Secret Session.

The Board of Education held a special secret session on Thursday evening to select the names to form a new preferred list, from which teachers are taken as a vacancy occurs. Seven names were agreed upon. Next June when the list is made out every year, will be determined upon.

One of the teachers selected and given a position upon the list was Miss McFarland, who formerly taught in the Durant School, but who resigned about two years ago to accept a position in the State Normal School. She was formerly a member of the recent political deals of the trustees, Miss McFarland with a number of the other members of the faculty left her place. It seemed that the teachers elected to fill the vacancy in Miss McFarland's class was sent to the Contra Costa School, and as soon as the pupils were made aware of this fact they sent a petition to the Board of Education asking that Miss McFarland be re-instated. SUES HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW FOR DAMAGES.

Young Husband Lost Wife, Baby and Home.

He Goes Into the Courts in Order to Get Satisfaction.

On the 26th of June, 1898, Harry Sparger married 17-year-old Rose Walters in this city. Rose's mother's name was Sarah Lysbeth Walters and the family home was at 711 Broadway, where the mother, it is stated, owns several homes.

Today Mrs. Walters is again in possession of her daughter who married little over a year ago, as she is also in possession of $500 worth of personal property which Sparger, the son-in-law, claims belongs to him.

Sparger says that Mrs. Walters has unjustly possessed herself of his wife, his baby and his belongings and has brought suit against her for $2,000 damages and $250 in the Justice's Court for appropriation of his personal property.

Sparger says that when he married Rose the young woman's mother promised to let him live in business, but kept the promise by giving him a second-hand suit of furniture. He then went to San Francisco and met with additional trouble from his mother-in-law. He declares, however, that his wife is still true to him despite her enforced absence from his home through the interference of his mother-in-law.

Chief of Police Has
Pictures of Men
Taken.

Chief of Police McGilchrist today had the photographs taken of William Danneker, William Downing and Henry McDuffy, the three men accused of being responsible for the recent burglaries and stand-ups committed in this city, and he has several men at work endeavoring to secure evidence against them. The men tell fantastic stories of their whereabouts on the night of the arrests, but under close questioning they contradicted themselves and each other on several points. When a search was made of Danneker's home at 115 Sixth street, a revolver and a pair of rubber shoes were found hidden in the yard and a cap and a half-burnt candle were found in Downing's pocket at the time of his arrest. As one of the men who had up the carriage of the Alameda power house was a cap, it is hoped that Downing may be connected with that crime.

McDuffy, it is believed, is an ex-convict. Although the police have not yet secured his record, Danneker is the son of a police officer who died several years ago, and is a graduate of the reform school, who has done time for vagrancy and petit larceny.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE
DR. J. P. RIELAY.

The funeral of the late Dr. J. P. Rielay was held today from his late residence at 1230 Clay street, Dr. J. K. McLean officiating. The remains were taken to San Francisco on an early train. The only services were held at Mountain View Cemetery, Rev. Dr. Maier officiating. The interment took place at Mountain View.

Sensible Hint
on Food from a California Woman.

"If you could hear all the experiences I have been at some pains to investigate, you would put a warning in the condensed milk boxes of Grape-Nuts and beg (?) consumers to limit themselves to the amount mentioned in the directions." True you do say "Grape-Nuts food is condensed milk and three or four heaping teaspoons at a meal," but the food seemed to fill such a long-felt want, and every child and man and woman, either alone or in combination with some other material, that overlooking the small type announcement of its being condensed milk, and not never more food than it can use, even if that food be most delicious, there is a natural revulsion, and the long-looked-for and valuable food is laid aside.

I advise persons who have had this experience to put Grape-Nuts on their menu again and not never more than four teaspoonsful at a time. Then one gets the powerful rebuilding strength of the food and it is served with zest to every coming meal. It has been a great blessing to our family." Mrs. W. P. Baker, Los Angeles, California.

PRESIDENT JORDAN ROASTS THE METHODS OF THE ENGLISH.

CHAMBERLAIN IS ARRAIGNED.

David Starr Jordan, President of Stanford University, delivered a striking address on the Boer war at the First Unitarian Church last evening. He said:

"Primarily, I say that my sympathies are with the English people, who are at present the victims of a gigantic bunco game."

President Jordan then stated that he was in receipt of letters from friends in England who spoke of the war and the way it had been brought on, and declared that they could not see how it is so conducted.

"Now, as to the causes asserted by the British government for the war with the Boers. First, that British influence should be everywhere paramount. Why should it be paramount to all nations in South Africa? Because the Anglo-Saxon is the great civilization. The Anglo-Saxon idea is all right, but the Anglo-Saxon of today is not the same as the Anglo-Saxon of the past. A Russian writer has said: 'He who has drunk will drink.' England has drunk of power over people who could not help themselves, and she thinks she must continue to drink."

"The British government often finds it necessary to 'flee the British heart,' and when a little war along some frontier is started. When there are murmurs at home over some cry for reform, or a religious secession, or an embarrassing, then it is found convenient to stir up a frontier war."

As a rule England never crosses a frontier if the people on the other side have any clothes on. Mr. Chamberlain has English power in his hand just now, and he is an adept at keeping some places between nations. These are the places kept between us and Canada, so that we will not become too good friends. Some places are kept between Australia and other colonies, and so are some places kept in South Africa—some of them are very sore just now. Then, too, England is forever overreaching. Witness the discussion over our Alaska boundary. She is willing to arbitrate most of her overreaching claims, and always manages to split the difference. So she comes out gainer anyway. But this arbitration which is preferable to war, is not justice.

England puts on the back the nations the said war.

"The basis of British politics is different from ours. It is based on inequality. The law of primogeniture, which makes the first-born a higher power than his brother, proves that equal justice among men has not entered into British politics."

"The claim is made by British leaders that British participation must be maintained in South Africa. It was not until urged by an English statesman that 70,000 men had not been ordered to South Africa to hold down thirty or forty thousand Dutchmen, but rather to show the powers of the world what Britain could do in an emergency and how quickly she could do it. James I. when claiming sovereignty over Holland said: 'Let Holland have a this vain desire to become a free state, which only makes a nation a nation. I will not allow it.' That is Chamberlain's speech today."

"We all say there is a God that watches over the destinies of all nations. We like to think so. The Englishman thinks of British God—strong and special—a guardian of the empire. Chamberlain says there must be in South Africa British supremacy—primogeniture. Why? Suppose we should say there should be United States supremacy over all North America, would that be just? Why should not a little people have the same justice as a large people?"

Believes HOW ENGLAND the Boers Should Have Justice

The speaker said the Dutch were not grateful for England's assistance in wars with natives. Then he described how gold discoveries in the Rand had attracted 30,000 adventurers from all lands and of all kinds. The Boers found it difficult keeping the mining camp in order. Englishmen flocked in and began to demand more and more privileges. One of the Boer leaders says the Boers are unjust, domineering and tyrannical. If it is true it does not make a particle of difference as far as war is concerned, nor is it a justification for one of the biggest nations going to war with a weak one.

"The British reasons for war are: 'Reverend British colonies, yet Gladstone had given up all claims of sovereignty over the Transvaal.'"

"All suggestions and promises of franchise failed. There was no reason why the invading foreigners should have any vote. They went there of their own volition, took gold and diamonds from the ground, and sent the precious minerals to other lands. There never was any good reason why California permitted men from all over the world to take the gold from her placers. And suppose that 100,000 people should come from some foreign land to California. Would it be likely that we would permit them to vote? The Outlanders outnumbered the Boers in their own camp."

"Local tyranny and corruption," the English charge them with. The same is found in other lands.

"The Boers say one of them can whip five Englishmen." The British cried, "We must remember Marston Hill." That was almost the only battle of thirty or forty years. England has had with people with clubs on, and the British were defeated. Almost all nations have remembrances. We remember the Maine! The British remember Marston Hill.

Realm of Society

Weddings Receptions Luncheons

The meddler.

And still the shattering of engagements goes merrily on. Only last week there were announcing how many Oakland girls would take up their residence in Honolulu, and now the list has been reduced by at least one. Berenice Landers has drawn her neck from the matrimonial yoke before it was too late, very sensibly, I think. Mr. McIntosh's social position does not compare with that of the Landers, and his salary, I understand, would not keep so delicately nurtured a girl in gloves and carriages. Miss Landers is a stunning girl in the best sense of that much-abused term, and there is not the slightest doubt that she will make a brilliant marriage. She has much gentility and cordiality, and has always been a social favorite.

The breaking of the engagement of Miss Ella Sterrett and Roy Craig is a surprise. They have been engaged since a little while that they have not had time to tire of each other, and so I fancy this is nothing but a lovers' tiff which will blow over. If the worst comes to the worst, they have had several dinners and teas and good times out of their brief betrothal, and some experience, too, I dare say. I hear that the young man is off for Australia.

We are all the more surprised, because Miss Sterrett assisted in receiving at the Craig tea only last week. Mrs. Craig told some of her intimates that day that the engagement was broken, but these friends thought that she was joking.

Of course, the event of the week was the Thursday Night Cotillion, which was by all odds the most enjoyable party we have had this winter. Everybody was there, I doubt if Reed's Hall has ever held so large a crowd before. In fact, there was such a crowd that the german was danced under difficulties. It was well by Karl Howard and Elizabeth McNear, the latter in a Paris gown. There were some lovely dresses there, and really by the most of the frocks were dress-making triumphs. There were several brides there, among them Mrs. Frederick Magee and Mrs. Pringle. Mrs. Pringle danced, though her husband did not. Her gown was of the palest blue. Mrs. Magee had a very handsome dress and looked extremely well. Mrs. Harry East Miller wore a gown of deep American Beauty shade—a very striking costume. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Wheaton wore a perfectly lovely dress of blue and white brocade, which was especially becoming to her fair beauty. Mrs. Edson Adams looked very well, as did Mrs. George Hammer. Miss Brown and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller, who wore a very modish frock. Some of the prettiest gowns had the odd combination of lace and fur which is so very fetching. Mrs. William Magee and Miss Huxa were there in stunning gowns.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Requa have returned from the East where they had a delightful visit spending their time between New York and Washington. They were much feted and entertained in both places. A number of dinners were given in their honor—in fact something every night, and they were forced to decline a number of invitations because of their return home. They could pleasantly and profitably have passed the entire winter there in a round of gaiety. Both of them are looking extremely well.

The stork has again visited Highlands and has left another little daughter for Colonel and Mrs. Oscar Long. It is a very lovely little girl who has come to be the playmate of little Amy Long. She was born last Thursday and if the auguries are correct that "Thursday's child has far to go" she will be a great traveler, perhaps glide the globe, who knows?

The engagement is announced of Miss Ruth Kirk and Mr. Potter. Miss Kirk is a charming and pretty girl and everyone wishes her well.

Quite a number of charming dinners have been given this week. President Wheeler gave his first dinner last Wednesday. It was to sixteen people, all professional heads of departments and their wives. The dinner is said to have been charmingly arranged in every detail. On Thursday evening Mrs. Driscoll gave an elaborate dinner, also to sixteen people, which seems to be a popular number for guests this year.

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Wade gave a reception in honor of their daughter Edith who was married last month. The reception was during the afternoon and evening hours and was largely attended by all the old prominent East Oakland families. There were some pretty dresses there.

Kleptomaniacs beware! That should be the sign posted in the stair dressing rooms at fashionable teas but as the kleptomaniacs are never caught they operate in safety. At the recent teas the weather has been so bad that the umbrella thieves have had a fine time. Many people have come with one umbrella and departed with two, and this in the face of the man in charge of the umbrellas who protested in vain.

It reminds me of a joke that has been going the rounds.

Husband of the woman about to give a tea, "I guess I had better put the umbrellas in the kitchen closet, my dear."

Lady about to give a tea, "Why, John, aren't you ashamed of yourself? Do you think any of my guests would steal an umbrella?"

Husband, "No my dear, but I was afraid they might recognize them."

At one of the swell teas (I absolutely refuse to tell which one) a valuable watch was missing. It's absolutely unexplainable and indefensible.

Miss Martha Alexander's wedding has been set for January 20th. The groom is to be young Mr. Waterhouse, and after the wedding the young couple will reside for the most part in Hawaii.

A good deal of entertaining this week was occasioned by the presence here of Madame Emma Nevada, the sweet singer. A great many Oakland people attended her three concerts, some on Monday evening, but more at the matinees, for we have the matinee habit confirmed. Mrs. Mills occupied a stage box on Monday evening, the blooming and handsome daughter of Mrs. Nevada also being in the box. Among the Oaklanders there were the Alexanders, Miss Georgia Strong, Miss Mabel Craft, Mrs. R. C. Craft, the Kiltredges and many others.

Miss Nevada had a reception given in her honor in San Francisco on Tuesday, and was entertained at Mills College today. Mrs. W. E. Sharon gives a dinner in her honor this evening—they were classmates at Mills, I believe.

Mrs. C. O. G. Miller looked perfectly stunning at the Ebell luncheon the other day. Next to Mrs. H. M. A. Miller, she is one of the best dressed women in Oakland.

Considerable fuss has been made over the Kimble family of Los Angeles. Miss Hattie Kimble, who has been visiting in Oakland, is an extremely pretty girl. The family is quite wealthy and formerly resided in Oakland. The son of the house is to make a particularly good marriage, being engaged to Miss Helen Thomas of San Francisco.

The King's Daughters' Home for the Cripple, which has been removed to the old Keyes residence, is doing famously. A great many old and infirm people are comfortably ensconced within its protecting walls, and recently Mrs. Brown, formerly Miss Delger, secured a large contribution of carpets for the bare floors and furnished the reception room. The home is open to visitors on Wednesdays and invites inspection of its work and methods.

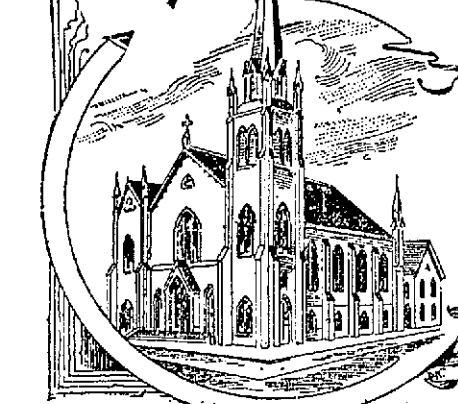

THE MEDDLER.

On Friday afternoon the Misses Elizabeth and Gertrude Scupham were "at home" to their many friends at the Scupham residence, 1113 Webster street. The hours were from three o'clock until six and the affair was one of the prettiest of the season.

The rooms were daintily decorated with smilax, hollyhock branches and greens. The dining room was brightened by quantities of English holly, and Christmas berries among the greenery. The ladies who assisted the Misses Scupham in receiving were Miss E. Kinsey, Miss Kate Holcomb, Miss Helen Powell, and Miss Marion Miller. Refreshments were served on small tables, charmingly and artistically decorated with candies and knots of crimson ribbons.

The guests present were Mrs. Charles B. Parcella, Mrs. C. F. Fugate, Misses Backus, Mrs. John Trelogan, Miss Amy White, Miss Mabel Gray, Mrs. Charles Dukes, the Misses Shafter, Mrs. H. K. Kegan, Miss Royall, Nicholson, Miss Florence Root, Miss Lulu Reed, Mrs. Willard Williamson, Miss Simpson, Miss Lulu Edwards, Miss Irene Taylor, Miss E. E. Brown, Miss Anna White, Miss Browie Brownell, Miss Bohall, Miss Ray Wise, Miss Harriet Kiltredge, Miss Eva Fulton, Miss Florence Burpee, Miss Louise Conklin, the Misses Cooper, Mrs. Oscar Gowing, Mrs. A.
